Dental Procedure Authorization

Form P-507
Rev. 06/05/2022

This form authorizes our hospital to perform a dental procedure on your pet. Most dental procedures consist of the following services: Pre-anesthetic blood work (optional), hospital ward use, pre-op analgesia, anesthetic induction, inhalation anesthesia, monitoring, dental scaling (oral examination, cleaning, and polishing of each tooth), periodontal therapy (scaling and cleaning of the tooth surface below the gum line), extractions (if needed), and application of a prophy foam/sealant. Sometimes, depending on the condition of the patient's mouth, dental radiographs may be taken or antibiotics prescribed.

This is a one-day procedure. Your pet should be ready to go home sometime in the afternoon. We will call you at the phone number(s) you provide on this form to let you know when your pet will be ready to go home.

The cost for a dental procedure varies depending on the condition of the patient's mouth. Extractions are usually the most variable component; most range $12-65, though it's possible for more complex extractions to exceed this. Due to the risks and effects inherent to maintaining full sedation, our staff will do what's best for the health of the patient if you cannot be reached.

The following ranges are typical for a basic dental procedure: Felines: $260-360; canines 30 lbs. or less: $350-480; canines 31 lbs. or more: $400-550. Remember, many dental issues can go undetected until the technician is able to examine the patient under anesthesia; problems that require treatment—such as fractured or broken teeth, major gum recession, or abscesses—may incur greater costs.
